ernment exploring expedition cannot, under present circumstances, prove other than gratifying. To find gold in paying quantities on our west coast corroborates the statements so often expressed about the auriferous character of that portion of the country and gives renewed hope of the gold bearing nature of the Island generally.It appears from the report that the exploring expedition on reaching Bear river divided itself into two parties—one ascending the right fork of the river and the other the left.The first party, under Battle the commander of the expedition, proceeded up the riveruntil they came to the head-waters, a distance of about twenty miles from its mouth.Although prospecting the whole way, in some instances reaching the bed-rock, they saw nothing of an encouraging character, and after getting a view, from the summit of a mountain 6,000 feet high, of the interior of the Island returned to the rendezvous, which they reached in seven days from the time they had left. The other party under Hancock had ascended the left fork returned the day after with more successful news.

When about eight miles up the river they struck a prospect of from four to five cents to the pan on the surface and commenced to sink for the bed-rock. This they reached after a day's work, which would probably make the depth ten or twelve feet. The rock, however, gave no better prospects than were obtained in the dirt from the surface down; but diggings of four or five cents to the pan, with a depth of wash-dirt of several feet can well afford to have a non-paying bed-rock. The quantity of wash-dirt is indeed the most attractive feature in the new diggings. Nor would it appear at all that the extent of the gold bearing portion of the river is limited. Hancock's party travelled two days along its banks prospecting before they came to any thing of a non-paying character; and even here, where the river is said to be swampy, we have great faith, from the very absence of the gold in the surface (which is easily accounted for by the quantity of water) that the bed-rock will be found to contain paying deposits.

The character of the banks also would lead one to take a hopeful view of their working.

A stratum of cement and gravel a little above the bed-rock and dipping into the hill, was tested and gave a good result.

Altogether we have as an indication of the auriferous character of these new diggings two dollars worth of gold taken from thirty pans of dirt, which would give between six and seven cents to the pan. Several hundred miners it is supposed could find immediate work along the banks and bars of the river, but there are besides innumerable gulches and creeks running into the stream which give every indication of being gold-bearing.

The great want in Leech river was wash-dirt, and the great bingbear, boulders. On Bear river, it would appear the circumstances are reversed—the miner is presented with an unlimited quantity of wash-dirt, and very few stones above the ordinary size obtained in gravel.

This will make the diggings doubly acceptable, especially to those who have had a Sooke experience. There are other features, also, that will no doubt be appreciated. Large vessels can run up to within ten miles of the mines, and more than half of this ton can be travelled in canoes, leaving the remaining few miles to be traversed on foot and over a comparatively easy country.

From what we can learn outside the report, we are induced to come to the conclusion that Mr. Butte for good reasons has rather understated than exaggerated the prospects —this statement, however, will be speedily set at rest by the numerous miners who will find their way to the new diggings before many days are over. It is said that, independent of the auriferous character of the banks and bars of Bear river, quartz ledges are to be seen intersecting the country in all directions, and we would not be at all astonished to find, before the termination of the mining season, this more permanent industry of the gold mines lending its aid towards building up the country. One thing however, is certain—the public mind is excited, and parties of miners will be on their way even to-day to the new gold diggings.

It might be, all things considered, desirable that the Government should show some disposition to protect these adventurers. We have no doubt that the Indians in the neighborhood will prove other than friendly, but the presence of a gunboat will have a whole some effect, and may prevent probably serious trouble in the future. Altogether we hail the news received from the exploring party as gratifying in the extreme, and whether all those who are about to make a practical test of its correctness prove successful or not, there is one consideration in the matter that it is neither a very hazardous nor a very costly experiment. To those of our artisans or laborers who are either entirely unemployed or irregularly employed at work, no more attractive opening could present itself, and we are far from desiring any undue excitement, when we say that every man who is not making a decent livelihood in Victoria should lose no time in testing his fortune on this newly-discovered gold field of Bear river.

DEPUTATION FROM SANANIC—A deputation consisting of J. J. Cochrane, Esq., M. L. A., for Sananic, and two of his constituents, waited on His Excellency this afternoon, to request that the appropriation of $10,000 for the Sananic Road, and $2,000 for the East Sananic road, be made at once, and the works begun during the good weather. His Excellency received the deputation very courteously, and said he considered the works perhaps among the most important in the colony, but the reason they had not been commenced was simply the want of funds. His duty was only to see that the sums voted were properly applied; he could not create funds himself, which was the prerogative of the House. He had himself gone over the road last April, and was obliged to turn back on account of the bad state it was in, so that he was well aware of the necessity of its immediate repair. From the state of the Treasury, however, the only means to be adopted was for the contractor to agree to be paid in the beginning of next year, either the whole or at least the money. He could not, however, pledge himself to course, but would do all in his power to have the work done. He would communicate the deputations already emitted, and when a decision was come to he would communicate with Mr. Cochrane, Mr. Colonial Secretary Young was in attendance during the interview, and agreed with His Excellency's views on the subject.—V. Times.

ECCLESIASTICAL—The Rev. Mr. Somerville, of the First Presbyterian Church, Victoria, preached in St. Andrew's Church, Carriarvon street, on Sabbath last, both morning and evening. The subject selected for the morning was the 31st verse of the 7th chapter of 1st Corinthians: "And they that use this world, as not abusing it; for the fashion of this world passeth away." The discourse was able and highly practical, and the application was eminently touching and impressivo. The recent terrible steamboat disaster was very appropriately alluded to as an illustration of the fashion of this world passing away. The subject chosen for the evening was the martyrdom of Stephen. Mr. Somerville appears to be a young man of great promise, and, if spared, will doubtless do much towards building up the church of his fathers, so long neglected, in these new colonies.—Columbian.

From QUEEN CHARLOTTE ISLAND—The schooner Random arrived yesterday from the above named Island, bringing back Mr. Robinson, the Superintendent of the Queen Charlotte Coal Company's mine, with five tons of specimens of coal from the vein which they have opened. The coal is said to be a good quality of anthracite. The cappings of the seam can be traced for about two miles; it is nowhere less than three feet thick. The Superintendent's report will of course be submitted to the directors, but from what we can gather we are led to conclude that the company have got a good thing. Coal is one of the resources of the country more calculated than any other to advance its material progress.

WESTWARD HO!—The exhilarating news from the West Coast published elsewhere was not known for three hours before a number of enterprising men had made up their minds to proceed to Bear river and try their fortunes. The steamer Thames is already on the berth, and is reported to leave this afternoon for Bedwell Sound. Two hardy pioneers called in to inform us last night that they proposed leaving to-day, and that probably fifty more would accompany them. We heartily wish our own and a safe passage to the land of promises, and the speedy realization of their brightest hopes when they get there. We shall do our best to encourage these crafts being laid on for Clayquot.

A PECULIAR BARNACLE—A queer character named Thomas Barnacle, was fined five shillings yesterday by the police magistrate, upon the information of Sgt. Blake for disturbing the peace. Barnacle—like the shell fish species of that name—is in the habit of climbing high rocks, but unlike that marine specimen mounts the rostrum for the sole purpose of delivering an address to the stony hemisphere. He is frequently found when "tight perched" on some eminence gesticulating and articulating with great emphasis, and is much pleased if he can only succeed in attracting a Siwash auditory.

RUNAWAY—A horse attached to a cart belonging to Mr. Louise, the grocer on Government street, took flight yesterday at a dog, and ran away down Karr street. The driver jumped out, and the horse soon after fell and smashed the shafts. No further damage was done.

THE BRIDGES—Mr. M. Wallace was charged yesterday with transgressing the law by driving too fast over the bridges. He put in a plea of urgency, and having made out a case to satisfy the magistrate, the charge was dismissed.

UP AGAIN—Sam Williams was brought before the magistrate again yesterday charged with being a suspicious character, and also with assaulting Sgt. Blake. He was remanded for one day.

POWDER—The schooner Sweepstakes brought round yesterday a quantity of gunpowder discharged from the Philomela at Esquimalt.

AMERICAN BELLES—America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as Sodden, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

Mrs. COLLINS'S BENEFIT—The complimentary benefit tendered by the Amateur Dramatic Association to this popular actress and vocalist will take place on Monday evening next, in the Victoria Theatre, under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and family. The pieces to be represented on the occasion are the musical drama of the Sentinel, to be followed by a musical interlude in which the Band of the Volunteer Rifles Corps (with the permission of Capt. Lang) will take part, and concluding with the serio-comico-pathetic-politico-melodramatic opera of Bonbantes Fancies, in which we understand numerous local fancies introducing the Fire Department and the various public bodies, institutions, and individuals of note in the city, will be given. For prices of admission, etc., see advertisement and bills of the day.

THE SEARCH FOR MR. CORBINIERE—The search made for the body of the unhappy young man who was drowned on Wednesday last at Langford Lake has so far, we regret to learn, been unsuccessful. Several friends were on the spot all night and continued their exertions yesterday with the boat and grapnels sent out, but to no purpose. The fisherman were then engaged to dive the lake with their nets to see if they could find the cause of which it is doubtful whether the fisherman will be able to accomplish anything. For the sake of the sorrowing friends of the deceased we hope they may.

A QUESTIONABLE TRANSACTION—Yesterday an exporte injunction was summarily served upon the Vancouver Printing and Publishing Company as well as upon the present proprietor at the instance of Mr. A. D. Bell, to restrain the publication of the Vancouver Times until Tuesday next, when a motion will be heard before the Court of Justice. No notice of motion or Bill of Complaint had been previously served, and the injunction is to be applied to the Company thereafter immediately applied to the Chief Justice in Chambers, who upon affidavit gave the defendant special leave to move that the injunction be dissolved to-day at 11 o'clock.

Mr. BATTLE'S REPORT—Yesterday an exporte injunction was summarily served upon the Vancouver Printing and Publishing Company as well as upon the present proprietor at the instance of Mr. A. D. Bell, to restrain the publication of the Vancouver Times until Tuesday next, when a motion will be heard before the Court of Justice.

Mr. McCausland, one of the Government exploring party from the West Coast, with dispatches containing the important intelligence that rich and extensive surface diggings paying from four to eight cents to the pan will be short, for I don't suppose they will be able to work after the middle or fore part of November.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,
(Signed) JOHN BUTLE,

Commander of Exploring Expedition.

STREET ODORS.

To THE EDITOR OF THE BRITISH COLONIST.

It seems to me unbecoming that the Council of Victoria with open their limited powers (which I believe are wholly in their own imagination) and apply, should not decide to have box drains made on the surface for our frequent street rivulets, the air and the sun is well known contribute so powerfully to spread the gases. Half-inch plank—even nine inches square—while leaded at the joints could be laid to sufficient fall. Proper air-tight metal traps every 50 yards or so would admit of occasional examination, and could not be dear at whose expense it is not my province to determine, though it appears but fair that those who make the nuisance should abate it.

Yours,

Box Drain.

THE FORTRESS MONROE PRISONERS—Recent intelligence from Fortress Monroe says that C. C. Clay has been taken sick; his imprisonment is evidently telling on his health. Dr. Bunerod attends him. The doctor is doing all he can to restore the prisoner's health. He is suffering from no particular disease, but is laboring under general physical prostration or debility.

Jeff Davis is really becoming robust; he is heavier now than on the day of his capture. He is ready to talk, though no answer is forthcoming. He has presented Dr. Craven with his elegant memorandum, said by educated pipe devotes to be worth $50 lawful currency of the United States. And the bowl of the great Zouave is still the same. Davis is unique, though not so valuable as the stem, in a greenish point of view. Jeff has not given up smoking by any means. He stipulated with Dr. Craven when he presented him the amber stemmed moerschau, to give him a long-stemmed pipe in return. This the doctor did. And Jefferson now pulls the weed from an ordinary briar root.

John Mitchell is gloomy and morose. He does not endeavor to break the impeded silence. He pulls in reticence, scowling fiercely on his guards, who, of course, never break the silence. John is becoming more tropical. Davis does not know of Mitchell's imprisonment.

CULVERWELL'S ESTATE—In yesterday's notice of an application made to the Chief Justice in the above estate, the Bank of British Columbia was inadvertently mentioned as applicants instead of the Bank of British North America.
